Jason Allen King is a comedian, writer, actor, filmmaker, and bird watcher from Charlotte, NC. Capitalizing on his personal experiences, family, and relationships (or lack thereof), King's comedy offers a unique perspective on familiar situations. A northerner who's been living in the south too long, he has endeared himself to audiences across the country pushing boundaries with a sharp yet positive spin on observations and self-deprecation.

Fresh off the release of his Dry Bar Comedy Special "Nobody's Emergency Contact" and a once-in-a-lifetime pandemic, King is back touring the country. He has opened for renowned comedians like Josh Blue, Preacher Lawson, Fortune Feimster, Rob Schneider, Christopher Titus, Colin Quinn, and Dave Attell.

He was voted Best Charlotte Comedian 2021 by Queen City Nerve, twice voted Charlotte's Favorite Comedian by Elevate Lifestyle Magazine, featured in It's A Southern Thing's One of 15 Southern Comics to Watch and Best of the Fest at the Burbank Comedy Festival.

Jason Allen King is the Host of The Comedy Zone Podcast writing/performing sketches and interviewing A-List celebrities and comedians from The Comedy Zone.

King writes and stars in the popular video series "George & Monty," which was invited to screen at the L.A. Comedy Shorts Festival. He has appeared in award-winning Short and Feature films like Pink (Amazon Prime) and Little Package (YouTube).

Also, as a writer/producer, King has worked on Feature Films like In/Significant Others plus national and regional commercial campaigns for NASCAR, Dirt Devil, CarParts.com, Alzheimer's Association, and The Good Feet Store.
